

Equity & Social Justice

This webinar will investigate the research around racial tensions and injustice in today's world. Participants will discuss ways to hold courageous conversations with staff regarding divisive challenges that are present in our current climate. The purpose is to create bridges instead of walls as districts return to school during this time of pandemic and extensive racial tensions.

Explore

Explore the shift from "all children" to "each child".

Intended Participants: District and building administrators and leaders in the district (guidance counselors, school psychologists, social workers, etc.)

Review

Review the brain's reaction to adverse childhood experiences.
